

1 CENT YELLOW LARGE QUEEN STAMP OF CANADA – 1869

This one-frame exhibit shows the philately of the 1 cent yellow stamp of Canada issued in 1869. This stamp was a replacement color for the original 1 cent stamp issued in brown in 1868. Confusion between the 1c and the 3c stamp, red but with many shade variations, caused confusion and led to the color change.

The stamp was replaced in less than a year with a new issue in a smaller size. Shown are aspects of production of the 1c on which the stamp was based, mint and used examples, shades based on dated copies, cancels in use during the stamp's brief period of use, and various usages on cover.
